Esther Loring Richards Children's Center

Joseph J. Reidy, M.D., Director

The Esther Loring Richards Children's Center, which opened in 1958, provides active, intensive, in-patient psychiatric treatment for children with serious emotional illnesses. Children who can be returned to their community after a relatively brief period of hospitalization are admitted up to their fourteenth birth date.

The basic differences between the pathology of the mentally retarded and that of the emotionally disturbed make necessary separate clinical programs and budgets. Nevertheless, the Center is part of Rosewood and its population, appropriations, and staff are included in the figures given below.

The budget for Rosewood is predicated upon a population of 2165 for the fiscal year 1959 and 2280 for 1960.

Appropriations	1959	1960
General Funds .....	$3,802,049	$4,210,781
Staff: 882.
